Dear Gallant CASA Members,

Re: IT Technician Position

The argument that there is a strong digital divide between the global north and global south is increasingly becoming an illusion of the past generations. The technological evolution in India and China in recent times believed to have been facilitated largely but not exclusively by western investments suggests to us that globalization philosophies are real and affecting the way we make business decisions today. We're learning day-by-day that in the field of information technology, it matters less where you live on the map of the world because there is enormous application software to keep us connected.

Accordingly, after carefully considering all applicants for the IT Position, CASA Executive Committee has offered this position to two distinguished gentlemen one in Uganda and the other in Botswana.

Brian Kavuma is an experienced specialist in website and graphic designing with over 12 years working experience in Canada, India and Uganda. Brian holds a bachelor's in computer applications (BCA) earned from Barkatullah University in India. He also has specialized training in website and graphic designing from Herzing College in Toronto, Canada. Brian currently works and lives in Kampala, Uganda.

Robert Kiyimba is a highly experienced professional in systems administration and computer networks for over 15 years. He holds a Bachelor of Commerce (B.Com) Makerere University Kampala, Uganda. He also earned a diploma in information technology from Zeal Computer School in Uganda and further specialized training from the same Institution. Robert currently works and lives in Gaborone, Botswana.

Brian and Robert will effective immediately be CASA's IT Support Technicians. They can both be reached at their official CASA email at: ITSupport@casaalberta.org

Gallant CASA family, please join me in welcoming Brian and Robert to our ever-growing family and wish them the best of luck in their new position. There will not be much honeymoon for Brian and Robert given that they have already started on website construction and joined our very own Anthony Kandu in designing CASA's logo that we so much need for our smooth advancement and growth.

Yours faithfully,

Sam Madesi – President CASA.
